ABSTRACT

During 1999-2000 school year, the North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio was administered to eligible students with serious cognitive deficits statewide as a pilot program. This report provides state, regional, and local education agency results of that pilot program. The purpose of the pilot was to review the feasibility, validity, and reliability of the assessment in addition to obtaining information necessary to refine the portfolio as needed, as well as to report student performance statewide. During the 1999-2000 school year, 2,117 students were assessed using the North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio. In July of 2000, over 120 special education teachers from across the state scored the portfolios. Each portfolio was assessed for overall completeness and quality. Ten percent of the portfolios received a second scoring to examine inter-rater reliability. Results from the assessment indicate: (1) approximately 31 percent of students statewide received a portfolio quality score of proficient or distinguished; (2) approximately 93.4 percent of all student portfolios statewide demonstrated growth; (3) approximately 21.1 percent of students with limited English proficiency received a portfolio quality score of proficient or distinguished; and (4) American Indian students had the highest percentage of proficiency and distinguished scores. The report includes extensive performance tables. (CR)

Acknowledgments

The North Carolina Department of Public Instruction (NCDPI) wishes to thank the dedicated special education teachers, school system exceptional children programs directors, and school system test coordinators who participated in the statewide pilot administration during the 1999–2000 school year. Because of their professional input and expertise, North Carolina public schools are a step closer to fulfilling the federal requirements of the Individual with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) Amendments of 1997 and a state commitment assuring a quality education for all students. Our special education teachers and other school officials were especially helpful during discussions at the summer 2000 scoring site. Their recommendations assisted state officials on how to best streamline the alternate assessment portfolio process. Their dedication to students with serious cognitive deficits is recognized and appreciated.

Introduction

During 1998, representatives from the Exceptional Children Division and the Division of Accountability Services/Testing Section held a series of meetings with parents, teachers of exceptional children, principals, school system test coordinators, and others to discuss the State of North Carolina's plan for fulfilling the requirements of the IDEA Amendments. As a result of these meetings, it was determined that the North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio would be the alternate assessment for eligible students with serious cognitive deficits.

Effective July 1, 2000, new state policies for alternate assessments were implemented to fulfill the federal requirements of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) Amendments of 1997. North Carolina's statewide testing policy, effective with the 2000–2001 school year, requires students with disabilities to participate in the statewide testing program by taking the state-mandated tests under standard conditions, with available accommodations or, if eligible, by participating in the North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio or the Alternate Assessment Academic Inventory.

The purpose of the pilot was to review the feasibility, validity, and reliability of the assessment in addition to obtaining information necessary to refine the portfolio as needed as well as to report student performance statewide. During the 1999–2000 school year, 2,117 students were assessed using the North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio. At the end of the pilot, all portfolios were scored centrally under the direction of staff of the NCDPI. In July of 2000, over 120 special education teachers from across the state scored the portfolios at The North Carolina School of Math and Science in Durham, North Carolina. Each portfolio was assessed for overall completeness and quality. Ten percent of the portfolios received a second scoring to examine inter-rater reliability. During the scoring process, the special education teachers, other school officials, and NCDPI staff discussed issues concerning the format of the portfolio, scoring rubrics, and the portfolio process in general. The pilot scoring process assisted in the NCDPI's final review and refinement of not only the portfolio instrument itself but also the processing procedures, scoring criteria, and the establishment of scoring standards.

The 1999–2000 Report of the North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio provides information on student performance on the statewide pilot of the North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio (NCAAP).

1999-2000 Report of Student Performance

North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio Pilot Program

What is the North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio?

The North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio is a year-long, performance-based assessment process that involves a representative and deliberate collection of student work/information that allows the user(s) to make judgments about what a student knows and is able to do, and the progress that has been made in relation to the goals specified in the student's IEP. The assessment has been implemented in response to IDEA legislation that requires all students to participate in the statewide assessment program.

Who is eligible to participate in the North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio?

The North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolio was administered statewide during the 1999-2000 school year to students with disabilities who were in grades 3 through 8 and grade 10 and fulfilled all of the following criteria:

1. The student must have a disability and a current Individualized Education Program (IEP).
2. The student must have a serious cognitive deficit.
3. The student is in grades 3-8 or in grade 10 according to the student information management system (e.g., SIMS/NCWISE).
4. The student's program of study focuses on functional/life skills as extensions of the North Carolina Standard Course of Study.

In which areas were the students assessed?

Students were assessed in the domains of Communication, Personal and Home Management, Career and Vocational, and Community. The portfolios also required information on whether a student's performance demonstrated growth during the school year. This determination was made by examination of the evidence provided in the portfolio as an indication of student growth.

What criteria were used to determine level or score?

A Student Task Rubric was used to evaluate how well the student performed a task specified in the portfolio in response to goals identified in the student's IEP. The student was assigned a performance level for each task in each of the four domains. Performance levels used in this assessment were:

- Level IV - Distinguished
- Level III - Proficient
- Level II - Apprentice
- Level I - Novice

A Portfolio Quality Rubric was used to evaluate the appropriateness, variety, and completeness of the evidence in the portfolio.

Page 4 lists the Student Task Rubric and the Portfolio Quality Rubric level descriptions.

How are the scores reported?	Each student's task scores in the four domains, the portfolio quality score, and the determination of student growth are returned to teachers after the scoring process is completed. Summary scores are returned for each Accountability Region, school system, and school in the state.
How were the portfolios scored?	There were 2,117 North Carolina Alternate Assessment Portfolios with a total of 9,523 tasks scored. Each portfolio was read and scored by a trained scorer. Ten percent of the student portfolios were randomly read and scored a second time, to ensure consistency and accuracy of scoring. Approximately 7.6 percent of the dually scored tasks resulted in non-adjacent scores.
Overall Student Performance Statewide	Communication Approximately 23.3 percent of the total tasks attempted by students statewide were scored at the proficient or distinguished level. Sample Individual Portfolio Score Report

Portfolio Quality Score

This score reflects the overall quality of the portfolio. The score is based on how well the student standards linked to the IEP, the completeness and clarity of the evidence provided, and the age and developmental appropriateness of the tasks/standards chosen for a student. If a domain was omitted, the Portfolio Quality Score was limited to a Level II or below due to incomplete evidence.

Task Scores

These scores reflect the level of student performance on each standard or task included in the portfolio. The scores were assigned according to the evidence provided in the portfolio. The Task Rubric used to score the tasks did not take into account a student successfully performing only a part or parts of a standard/task. For example, a standard stated that a student would name 10 of 10 body parts, yet the student successfully named only 9. This task was scored "Novice," since the student never performed the task as outlined in the standard. Please note that the Task Rubric is being revised so that the Task Scores assigned next year will more accurately reflect the partial success of students.

Key to Task Score Designations

Distinguished—Student consistently performs the task correctly, although perhaps with a rare lapse; frequently initiates the task; and will apply skills across environments, situations, and people, when applicable to the task.

Proficient—Student performs task correctly; may frequently initiate the task; and may apply skills across the environment, situations, and people, when applicable to the task.

Apprentice—Student occasionally performs task correctly; may initiate some of the task; and may apply skills across the environment, situations, and people, when applicable to the task.

Novice—Student rarely or never performs the task correctly; may rarely or never initiate the task; and may not apply skills across the environment, situations, or people, or may not respond or react appropriately, when applicable to the task.

Student Growth

Does the evidence in the portfolio demonstrate that the student has shown growth?

Portfolio Score

An overall portfolio score was not assigned due to limitations of the Portfolio Rubric, as written. Revising this rubric, or omitting this score altogether, are under consideration for the 2000-2001 portfolio.
